We kindly invite you to our event organized within the project
Refugees & Queers. Political education at the intersection of LGBTTIQ and Migration / Asylum / Flight (funded by Bundeszentrale für politische Bildung).

We invite trainers, activists and political educators who want to address the topic of “queer refugees” within a wider public. Together with other participants you will get to know and try out practical tools and strategies to place your topics within the German media and press.

We want to speak about the societal discourse around queer refugees and LGBTIQ and Flight/Migration/Asylum. We want to discuss strategies to generate visibility beyond stories of victimhood and strengthen self-representation by employing different images and stories.

Fadi Saleh will discuss “Critical Reflections on the Global Politics of Representing Syrian Queer Refugees” with us. Via a basic media training, Joanna Stolarek of Neue Deutsche Medienmacher (<http://www.neuemedienmacher.de/>) will not only share practical media know how with the participants but also talk about strategies for navigating racism within the German media landscape.

Finally, Dennis Sadiq Kirschbaum (i,Slam) and Tarik Tesfu will explore the possibilities, boundaries and traps of (self) representation via the method of digital storytelling.
